FOREWORD

"Is it not good to have in the background of life a little walled-in garden of memories where one may go back on rainy days and gather flowers?" For this purpose primarily do the editors publish this 1931 edition of the Laurel. In spite of the defects which critics may point out, if in some future day, by turning the pages of this book, the memory of days spent upon the Hill may be brought back with fond regret, if the ideals instilled there surge anew within us, and if in some way life may be made more worthwhile because of remembering, this Laurel will have accomplished its purpose.

DEDICATION

To Mr. P. L. Elliot—a man of sterling worth, beloved teacher, cherished, friend and counselor, Christian gentleman, the members of the Senior Class, through appreciation of the infinite value of contact with him and the marked inspiration of his friendship, dedicate this 1931 edition of the Laurel.

P. L. ELLIOT

ALMA MATER

Oh, dear Alma Mater, we praise thy great name
For the lives of the ones thou has taught;
Through struggles and care thou hast won thy great fame,
And great are the deeds thou hast wrought.
Thy sons and thy daughters hold mem'ries of days
When they labored and toiled in thy care;
They are blessing the world and are giving the praise
To thy name, Alma Mater, so fair.

Oh, wonderful teacher, thy beauties and truths
Are moulding our own lives like thine;
A model thou art for thousands of youths;
Thy truths with our lives we entwine.
We share all thy gains; thy losses are ours;
As thou art may we ever be;
May we give all our lives with their talents and powers
In service learned here from thee.

Thy hills in their beauty inspire us to climb
To the heights that are noble and great;
Thy rippling brooks and thy bowers sublime
Have lessons for each to relate.
Should we live to old age, our hair silv'ry grey,
Ever faithful and true we would be;
And with hearts full of love we would bless the day
When destiny led us to thee.

—EDITH MAYES.

In Memory of Mother Biggers

In loving memory of one who fulfilled the sacred tasks of motherhood in its finest conception, whose tender mother heart could enfold a multitude with unequaled devotion, and whose light shall shine forever upon the paths of men who, because of her interest and prayers, could know that someone cared for their souls. In grateful acknowledgment of all the beautiful, inexpressible attributes of motherhood, which were so wondrously exemplified by her, we offer this tribute with the earnest hope that the light of her saintly life may be reflected by the students of Mars Hill College.

SENIOR CLASS POEM

DO NOT FORGET

By D. L. Stewart

Do not forget
The childhood scenes, the homely hearth, the tender eyes,
The toiling hands, the broken prayers, the sacrifice.
Do not forget.

Do not forget
The college scenes; the teacher's voice; the deathless ties
Of friends sincere; the happy hours; the last good-byes.
Do not forget.

Do not forget
The broken lives, the bleeding hearts, the anguished plea,
The stifled sob of sin-oppressed humanity.
Do not forget.

Do not forget
The high resolves; the sacred vows; the work we share:
We are not worthy, comrades, of the name we bear,
If we forget.

MISS WINIFRED WHITE
Born 1908—Died 1931

The student contact on Mars Hill Campus has been made more beautiful and memorable because Winifred White passed this way. The radiant sweetness of her existence, her devotion to Mars Hill, and the wonderful friendship which was experienced by association with her, stand as a perfect tribute to her memory—a monument enshrined in the hearts of all who experienced the joy of her acquaintance, the unmeasured love aroused by her comradeship, and at last the deep sorrow of her departure. When we view the picture of her life as it is stamped on memory's page in unforgetable colors, we gasp at the unmarred beauty there. When we recall the experiences with her, that can never grow old, the realization comes with cutting regret that they must ever be only memories. Yet when we remember that hers was a life of love and beauty and that these constitute immortality, we thank God for the inseverable tie that binds us to her infinite existence in the beautiful home of the soul.

A-4 CLASS POEM

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS

High School Seniors we are,
Reaching in open air;
A worthy class of zest—
There is no thought of rest.

With ambition to learn,
The ideals that will earn
The true light in living,
The real life of giving.

In this time of our youth,
We are searching the truth;
We strive to do our best—
With strength to stand the test.

NONPAREIL LITERARY SOCIETY

ANNIVERSARY REPRESENTATIVES

COMMENCEMENT REPRESENTATIVES

HISTORY OF THE MARS HILL LITERARY SOCIETIES

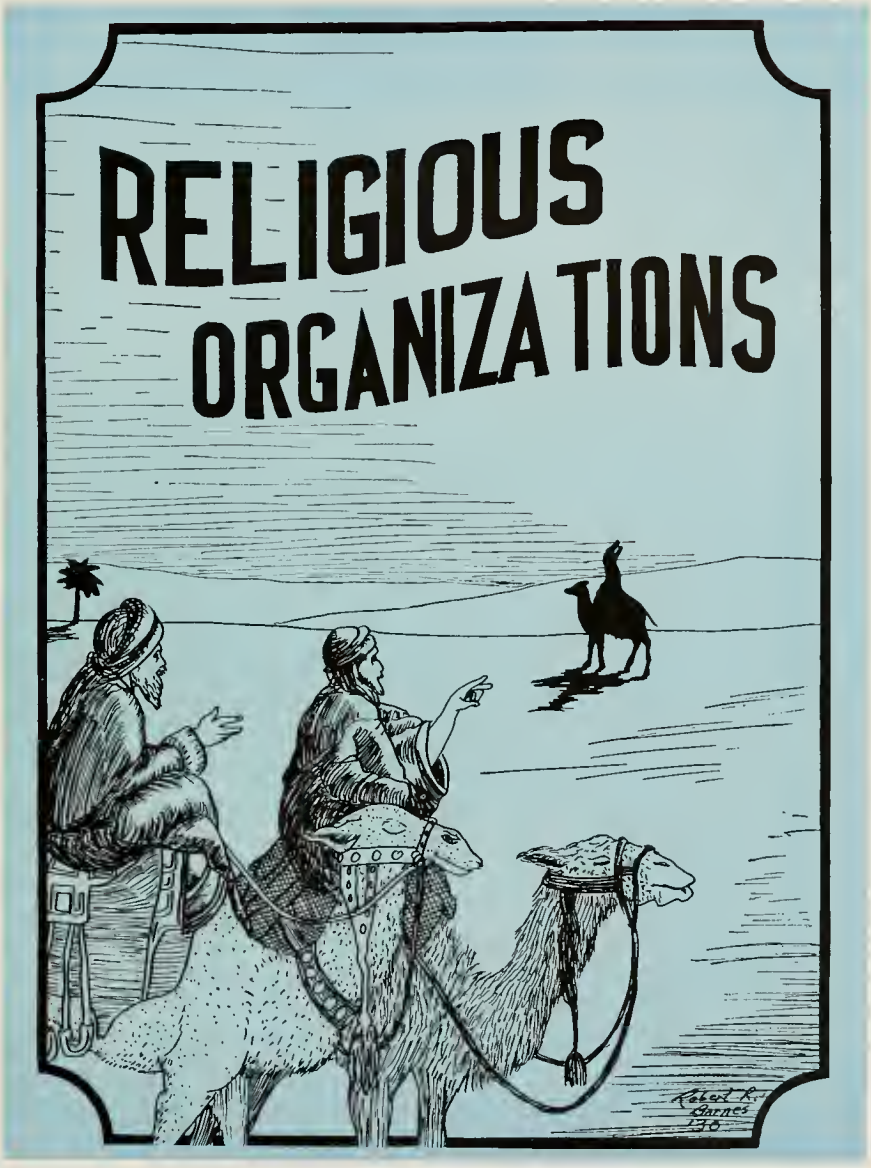

In the year 1858, a small group of young men organized the first Literary Society, the Philomathian, and elected Mr. Pinkney Rollins as president. The society was organized primarily as a debating society and in their work the members took a serious interest. It is easy to imagine the heated debates that took place among that group just prior to the closing of the College by the Civil War.

After the close of the war the society was reorganized. This was in the year 1886, and so rapid was the growth of the society that it was necessary to divide it into two groups, one known as the Mars Hill Literary Society and the other as the Columbian Literary Society. Later the Columbian Society was absorbed by the former, making again one society. So thorough was the training received in the society halls that the members were known as the best debaters for counties around. This was in a day when debating was the usual rather than the exceptional form of entertainment, and many students were well experienced.

Between the years 1891 and 1895 the first girls society was organized by Miss Mae Yarborough. The society was called the Clio. About 1895 both the boys' and the girls' societies were divided, making four societies as we have them today—the Philomathian with its sister society, the Clio, and the Euthalian with its sister society, the Nonpareil. The work was not all debating, but the study of music, literature, and art had become part of the program.

For thirty-six years these four societies have worked side by side. There has been rivalry and friendly competition, but always they have had the same ideal toward which to work and the same height of past achievement to maintain.

From these halls have gone preachers, statesmen, doctors, lawyers, educators, and still the societies are training, and today loyalty to society is one of the strongest forces on our campus.

RELIGIOUS ORGANIZATIONS

RELIGIOUS ACTIVITIES ON THE CAMPUS

Winning the campus for Christ has been the goal of each religious organization on the campus this school year.

In October Founder's Day was celebrated in an unusual way. Dr. Powell of Nashville, Tennessee, brought to the school the Brown Lectures. Dr. Brown was the first president of Mars Hill College. The relatives of the family were here for most of the four addresses.

A revival of Christian people was held in the fall. Dr. Haymore, of Atlanta, Georgia, brought the stirring message from Him for two weeks. Many came to know Christ for the first time, and a host came to know Him in a new way, rededicating their lives anew to Him and His marvelous work.

Mr. Perry Morgan sponsored the Sunday School Study Course. This put a new light on Sunday School. Practically every student is enrolled in one of the eleven classes on the Hill. Much interest is shown on the part of both teacher and pupil. A. T. Usher and Cooper Gretter have devoted much time to this work throughout the year, and their efforts have not been in vain.

An organization which every student enjoys immensely is B. Y. P. U. This meets on Sunday afternoon from 3:00 o'clock to 4:00 o'clock. Paul Reese and Florence Johnson have seen each union start at the bottom and reach the standard. The entire department is also standard. Charles Howard, State B. Y. P. U. President, and James Ivey, State Secretary, put life and "pep" into this group the week they spent on the campus called "Study Course Week."

The girls have their organization called Y. W. A. They take much interest in this. There are three meetings a month, two circle meetings and one public program. Miss Harmes, the Councilor, took an interest in each circle being thoroughly organized. Through the co-operation of these well organized circles, with Miss Harmes' aid, the Y. W. A. has done excellent work. It sponsored a G. A. house party for this region of North Carolina. Miss Pearl Bourne, Miss Alva Lawrence, and Miss Elizabeth Cowan, with the help of the Y. W. A. Council put the Y. W. A. Study Course over the top.

The morning watch in Spilman Dormitory has been an inspiration to the entire group of girls. This was sponsored by the Y. W. A. also.

There is another meeting held each Thursday night called the Ministerial Conference. These young men take much interest in trying to learn how to serve their Master in a better and nobler way.

The Volunteer Band which meets each Tuesday evening is zealous in its work and is faithful to let nothing interfere with its little devotional period.

Christ means much to the Mars Hill campus. It is He who makes Mars Hill what it is. His love radiating through the unusual faculty touches the students as perhaps they will never be touched elsewhere.

THE LEARNED CLUBS

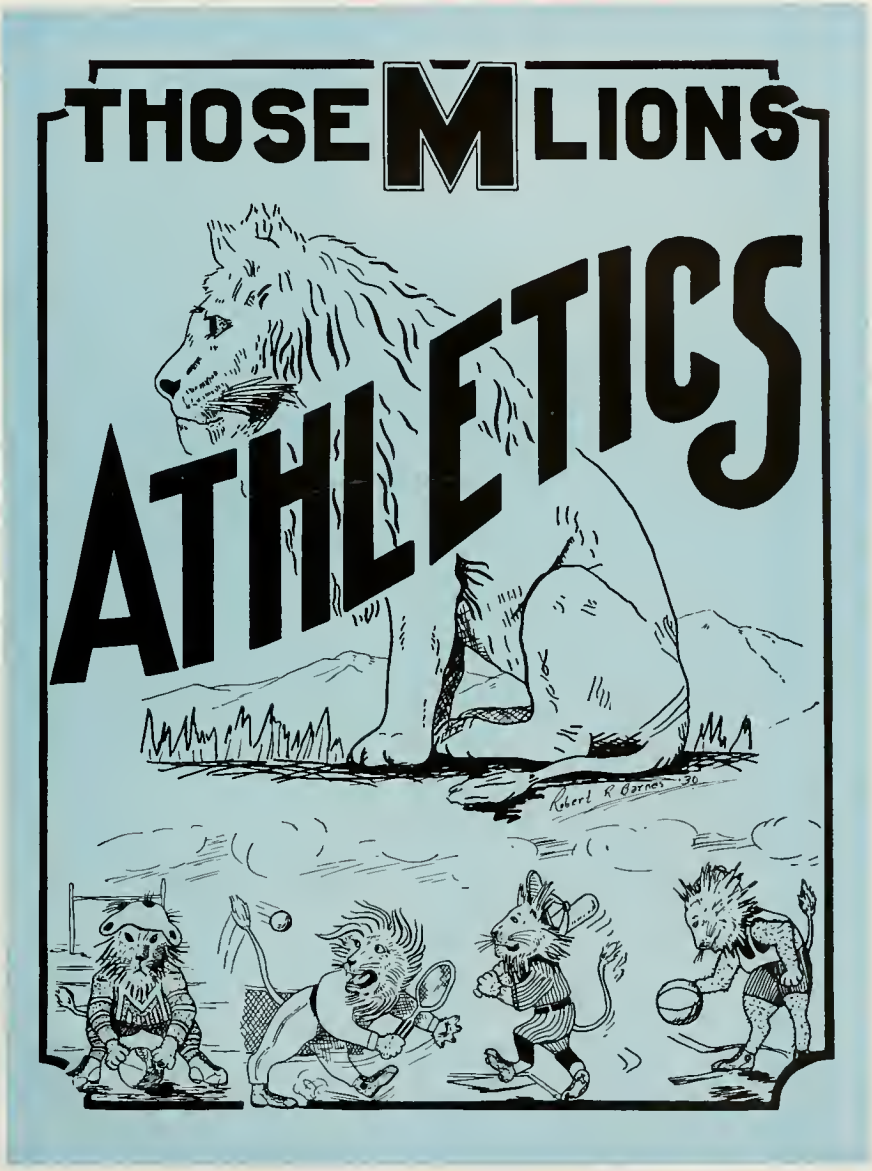

In the year of 1925 through their interest in the fullness of education received by the students of Mars Hill, Mr. I. N. Carr and Mr. P. T. Elliot first conceived the idea of the organization of clubs in various educational departments as a means to creating greater interest and providing greater opportunity for development. At the beginning of this movement, there were numerous clubs from almost every field of study. The purpose was to join together students interested in the same subjects into a club where the leading topics and questions concerning the definite field would be profitably discussed and a scientific approach to study made possible. Later in order to insure the success of the clubs, there were qualifications for membership. The members were required to prove their interest in the club by attaining a certain standard of scholarship in the study of its subject.

Today there are only three learned clubs. The Language Club receives its members from the departments of ancient and modern languages. The members excel in these subjects and are interested in the fields of literary work.

The International Relationship Club consists of students who excel in History, Government, and Economics, and who are interested in pursuing these subjects.

The Science Club is composed of students who plan to follow scientific research, the medical profession, or engineering, or other scientific fields. Its members excel in science and mathematics.

The value of these clubs to their members is marked. They create an interest in these fields, inspire students to greater endeavor, and provide a dignified and profitable method of study.

MARS HILL CHEER LEADERS

ANNUAL HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

The sixth annual High School Basketball Tournament was one of the "best ever." Ten counties were represented, and of the sixteen teams eight were county champions. The attendance was good and every section of Western North Carolina was represented, either by spectators or by basketball players. Both teams that went into the finals were dark horses. Most everyone had picked Bakersville to play in the finals, but they were eliminated by Edneyville, the champion.

The following teams were entered: Bakersville, Barnardsville, Spruce Pine, Marion. West Jefferson, Beech Glenn Sand Hill, Sylva, Burnsville, West Buncombe, Glenwood, Bee Log. Edneyville, Hudson, Crossnore, and Leicester.

Good sportsmanship was manifested by both players and spectators, and not one ungentlemanly act was seen by anyone. The management of the tournament was successfully directed by the "M" Club boys. Each knew what to do and did it. The sport writers who cover this meet each year say that it is the best high school tournament in the South.

My Bonnie lies over the ocean,
My Bonnie lies over the sea.
I have an old-fashion feeling,
My Bonnie lies mostly to me.
--Jack Tilson.

Your office is as hot as an oven," said a client to his lawyer, B. T. Falls. "Buss" replied: "It ought to be; I make my bread here."

Griggs: "Mrs. Robinson, did you ever notice that all loud talkers are ignorant?"
Mrs. Robinson: "You need not talk so loud. I'm not deaf."

A man lies when he has to. A woman lies because she has to.

Val on History Class: "What war did Lieutenant Governor Fountain fight in?"

Miss Coon (in S. & W. Cafe): "Do you serve lobsters here?"
Waiter: "We serve anybody; have a seat."

Mr. McLeod: "Miss Nalle, are you very well read?"
Ruth: "No, nothing but my hair."

"WOOLEY" FOWLER AN HIS FIRE WORKS———

Fred Bose: "I finally answered a question in Bible today."
Bill: "Good! What was it?"
Fred: "Present."

Bradley: "May I call you 'revenge'?"
Alta Ruth: "Why?"
Bradley: "Because revenge is sweet."
Alta Ruth: "Sure, if I may call you 'vengeance'."
Bradley: "Why?"
Alta Ruth: "Because 'vengeance' is mine."

A great big tease
Is Miss DeWeese.
She likes Howell,
But how Coffey does please.

Andy Fox: "How would you punctuate this sentence: 'The beautiful Miss Greene was walking down the street'?"
Fletcher: "I'd make a dash after the beautiful Miss Greene."

The Eskimo sleeps in his bear skin,
Up in the north, I'm told.
Last night I slept in my bare skin,
And caught my death of cold.

Mr. Trentham: "Mr. McLester, why do they whitewash the inside of a hen house?"
Bill: "I think, sir, it is to keep the chickens from picking the grain out of the wood."

Coffey: "Mullis, I want you to pray for my floating kidney."
Mullis: "I can't pray for anything like that."
Coffey: "Well, I heard you pray the other night for the loose livers."

Who is the biggest cob on the campus?
Why Ray O'Brian likes lab work?
If Miss Pierce ever was in love?
If Mr. Huff ever gave an easy English test?
Who will sing for Mullis when "HOT" is gone?
Who "PILL" is?
Who Ruth Nalle S P is?
Where Prof. Smith hangs his mistletoe?
If cigarette isn't feminine of cigar?
If "Nottie" Tilson has had any "giraffe dates"?
Which is more popular "Beans" or Eggs?"
If "Sot Quinerely has seen Asheville?
Why Lillian Crowe is like W. O. Rosser?
Who knows what the "SOUP-LINE" really is?
"If tobacco grows in plugs?" said Liv. Williams.
If you know a big chicken man from Mars Hill?
Who "Daddy Tom" is?
If "Slim" Gretter still has a "Pet Crow"?
If Miriam Padgett ever had a thought?
Who the dumbest girl in the Senior Class is?
Where Bob Whitfield is from?
If Fred Cockerel got lost in Long Island?
Why Miss Bowden wears her Sunday glasses sometimes during the week?
How three young ladies went to Statesville?
Why the young ladies were not allowed to wear low backed dresses to the Junior-Senior?
If I'm not still wondering too?

FREE VERSE AND WORSE

This is the way it will be in 2010,
Herman McCorkle will be playing tenpins.
I hear by the fireside ten children or more,
And lo and behold Val Edwards did roar.
I heard Judge Jarrett from the bench solemnly say,
"Ninety days, county jail, take him away."
The scene now shifts to days of yore,
When in chapel "CRIP" Yarborough did snore.
I remembered then old "Brinkley" Dale,
Who hit 'em from town to town so "C" could get 'em by return mail.
I wondered then at Hoyle Lee's wit,
As he sat there reading a Mars Hill Gazette.
Frances Barnes, Dean of Women, did say,
"You can roll your hose, girls, in any old way!"
But out in the street a sight to be seen,
Alta Ruth Reese was riding a limozine.
And up in the Senate filibustering away,
Senator Joe C. Plyler sure saved the day.
Oh yes, in Charleston a "nurse" did dwell.
No use talking—Charles Murphy is well.
Now in the class room, "SNOW" falling fast,
Coach "Rockne" Webb was teaching a Health Ed. class.
There was an old doctor whose name wouldn't tell,
But when Dr. McLester gets through you ought to be well.
Big Jane Jones was known as a tanka,
Till President Fred Bose threatened to properly spanka.
I have now only one story behind,
Whoever stole the "GRAPEFRUIT" was a friend of mine.
And that I'm no poet,
And by this you know it.

Reckless drivers,
Speeding freights;
Solemn music,
Golden gates.

"This is sure a lucky break for me," said the little chicken as it climbed out of the shell.

The early bird may not get the worm, but he sure does get the hot water in Melrose.

Grainger (on entering school): "Say, who is this 'Alma Mater'? I don't believe I have met her yet."

"Dog" Smith: "What is steam?"
"Bob" Dills: "Water in a high state of perspiration."

"Of all the words from the tongues of men:
The rarest are these, "I'll lend you ten."

Love is like a photograph plate—it takes a dark room to develop it.

"Hot": Some day there will be a price on my head."
Goforth: "Yes, the price of ivory is going up."

"Judge" Jarrett: "What is the verdict of the jury?"
"Foreman" Hendricks: "Your honor, the jury is all of the same mind—temporarily insane."

"Tiny" Owens: "There were three people that came out of the ark before Noah."
"Daddy" Blackwell: "How do you know?"
"Tiny": "Because it says in the Bible that Noah came forth."

Lives of Seniors all remind us,
Strive to do your very best.
And, departing, leave behind us
Note books that will help the rest.

She: "Well, I must be off."
He: "That's what I thought when I met you."

Dobson: "I like to hear Mr. Stringfield lecture on education. He brings home things I have never seen before."
Lowrance: "So does my wash-woman."

"Crip" Yarborough's average income is midnight.

"Boots" Ellis: "A great poet met an ironical fate the other day."
Mr. Huff: "How's that, Ellis?"
"Boots": "He starved to death with a volume of Bacon in his lap."

Mr. Smith: "Who made the first nitride?"
Frisby: "Paul Revere."

I'm reminded:
"The sweetest man I ever kissed,"
Said gay Jerry Holcombe,
Used powdered sugar on his face
Instead of talcum."

I've been told that Adam was the first radio bug. He made a loud speaker out of his spare parts.

Stallings: "I don't know what to do with my week-end."
"Rat": Put your RAT cap on it."

IN every business, repeated effort to excel soon develops excellence. For thirteen years we have been improving our printing so that today, as a result of that patient work, we hold an enviable position in the ranks of good printers.

The MILLER PRESS, Inc.

Annual Printers

ASHEVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

The editor wishes to take advantage of this medium to express to those students, faculty members and business men his appreciation for their help in building this annual and for the individual and personal contributions:

First, to Robert Barnes, who has added much to the success of this "Book" in the capacity of artist.

To Mr. Fred E. Gerberding, of the Bush-Krebs Engraving Company, who was a friend and an excellent advisor from the first day until the last plate was finished.

To Mr. G. J. Searle and The Miller Press, for their helpful cooperation in printing the "Book."

To Mr. P. C. Stringfield, whose personal interest in not only the photography, but in every phase of the work, will always be acknowledged and remembered.

To Mrs. W. F. Robinson, our faculty advisor, for her mature council and advice which was especially helpful in financing the "Book."

To Ray O'Brian, whose job as business manager was no easy one and was made all the more difficult by the closing of several Western North Carolina banks and the general financial condition that existed.

To Frances Barnes, whose work has shown her to be, apart from her other fine qualities, a combination of dependability, capability, and willingness.

To John Johnson, who in handling, perhaps the most distasteful job of all, that of photographic editor, has proved himself the most persistant member of the staff.

To Corbet Carnes, Mamie Kelley, and Robert Stroupe, who as class, feature and humor editors respectfully, have fulfilled their mission well and cooperated splendidly.

To Louise Smith, whose job came last, but by no means least, and who worked hard right up to the last minute.

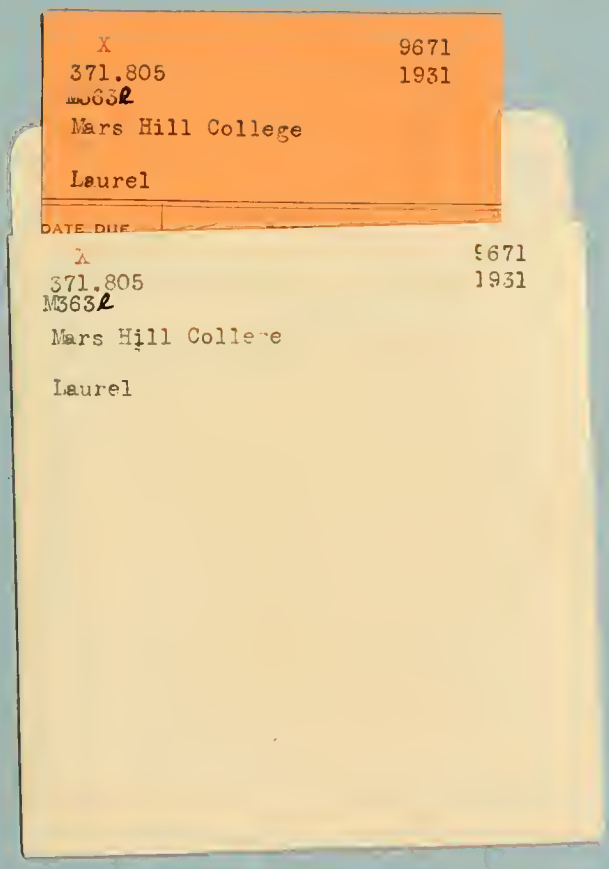

To Paul Fox, Bruce Grainger, Bomar Lowrance and Ray O'Brian who successfully pulled through on the advertising.

To Cooper Gretter, for the work that he did while serving as editor.

To the faculty and student body for the cooperation that they have given.

THE EDITOR.
